

Tot Who Gulped Shell Leaves Hospital Here

Little Carol Karg, 4, knows now that swallowing a little thing like a 22-calibre rifle shell can cause a lot of complications.

Carol, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald L. Karg, was discharged from the Oil City Hospital Sunday where she had quite a hectic 12 days.

IT ALL STARTED about 4 p. m. Tuesday, May 28, when she innocently picked up some grass and in some manner swallowed a 22-calibre brass shell which she picked up with the grass.

Actually, she didn't swallow the shell. She "inhaled" it, an Oil City physician said Sunday night, because the shell lodged in her windpipe where it branches off into the lungs.

About four hours later that day, her parents noticed she was having difficulty in breathing. They did not know that she had "inhaled" a shell.

SO THEY RUSHED her to the Oil City Hospital where X-rays showed the shell in her windpipe, near her lung. An emergency operation was performed and the half-inch shell was removed.

Then two days later the little girl developed pneumonia because of complications which began before she was admitted to the hospital. The tot was placed in an oxygen tent.

LATER WHEN irritation caused her throat to swell, she underwent another operation—a "tracheotomy." This is cutting open the throat on the outside and placing a silver tube into the windpipe. This made it easier for the little girl to breathe.

Sunday she had recovered so well that she was able to go home with her parents.

FOUR-YEAR-OLD CAROL KARG of Fryburg gets help from Nurse Helen Nuhfer in packing before being discharged from the Oil City Hospital Sunday. In less than two weeks, the little girl had a 22-calibre shell removed from her windpipe, had a silver tube inserted in her throat and then came down with pneumonia. Completely recovered from her ordeal, she is expected to be romping again around her home this week.

Slice In Arms Possible

By WATSON SIMS
LONDON, June 9 (AP)—Disarmament negotiations could turn an historic corner this week through the initiative of the United States. Harold E. Stassen is expected to start outlining a new U.S. policy for a partial arms cut in the United Nations Disarmament subcommittee here after returning Tuesday from a weekend visit home.

The policy is billed as more than just another bargaining statement in a word game which has gone on for 11 years.

"This is not just a setting forth of our own national preferences," said one high American source. "We have real hope that this is something which will commend itself to all nations."

Whether Soviet Russia agrees—and she has been more free than usual this year in predicting some form of disarmament agreement may be reached—could go a long way toward determining whether and when the world may start laying down its arms.

Some Westerners say the U.S. proposal may have as much impact on international relations as President Eisenhower's "open skies" inspection proposal at the Geneva summit conference in 1955.

It dates directly to personal decisions made by Eisenhower in Washington May 25.

The decisions were more a policy than a plan. Getting them into language which could be incorporated into a draft treaty called for lawyers of several nations.

Getting the policy approved by other governments was another lengthy process.

Disarming Talks Set In Capital

WASHINGTON, June 9 (AP)—Harold E. Stassen returned today from disarmament talks with the Russians at London, ready to check signals with President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles on the new U.S. arms control plan.

"We are carefully and slowly making progress toward an agreement for partial measures constituting a first step in the armaments control program," Stassen told reporters at the airport.

"We are moving in accordance with the policies of President Eisenhower and Secretary Dulles for a lasting peace... there are many problems remaining."

Stassen brought back with him, presumably for a review, the American plan he took to London two weeks ago. He will fly back to London in a few days.

As Eisenhower's disarmament aide Stassen has been consulting privately with his fellow delegates from Britain, France, Canada and Russia at the United Nations Disarmament subcommittee meeting in London. But so far he has not unveiled the new plan, which is understood to propose:

- 1. Aerial "open skies" inspection of U.S. and Soviet zones in the Arctic.
- 2. Trial suspension of atomic bomb testing.
- 3. Freezing production of atomic weapons.

Man Dies In Crash

ALTOONA, Pa., June 9 (AP)—Wayne J. Campbell, 20, of Bellwood, Blair County, was killed today when his car crashed into a tow truck in Altoona. He was riding alone.

Immigration System Hit

WASHINGTON, June 9 (AP)—Scott McLeod said today President Eisenhower's proposed immigration law changes don't go far enough toward a basic solution of the immigration problem.

McLeod, newly named ambassador to Ireland following a controversial tour as State Department security chief, hit at the present immigration quota system based on the nationalities of people who previously came to this country.

He did not specify, however, what quota system he thinks should be adopted. He recommended creation of a "very high-level commission" of distinguished citizens to study the question and make recommendations.

The ambassador was interviewed by Rep. Keating (R-NY) in a program filmed for use by Upstate New York TV stations. Keating is a sponsor of Eisenhower immigration legislation in Congress, but there has been little evidence of action on the bill so far.

Conference Closes

BUFFALO, N. Y., June 9 (AP)—The 148th annual Genesee Conference of the Methodist Church ended a five-day meeting today.

Legislation To Help Clean Up Unions Urged By Nixon

WASHINGTON, June 9 (AP)—Vice President Nixon, taking stock of legislation likely to stem from the Senate rackets investigation, said today Congress must avoid the "mistake" of blaming "an entire movement for the blunders and crimes of a minority."

Corrective legislation "must not weaken or destroy unions" but help members clean up their own ranks, he said.

Sen. Ervin (D-NC), a member of the Senate Rackets Committee, said Congress probably will have to pass some laws to help organized labor police itself. But he said union members can do a lot if they "just stand up for their rights."

Ervin told a reporter the committee, in recess until Thursday, has shown clearly that some union officials have assumed a "kingly power to use union funds for their own pleasure and in rather enormous amounts."

Nixon, in a speech prepared for graduation exercises at Michigan State University, said the committee is doing a good job "in exposing the activities of union officials who broke faith with their union membership."

But he said the "more difficult question" is just what legislation should grow out of its work.

"Organized labor today is going through a period of trial comparable to that endured by the business community 20 years ago," the vice president said. "Its leadership is being scrutinized and tested. Some union leaders have been shown to have failed badly in their positions of trust."

Nixon said Congress should properly concern itself with "the protection of the integrity of union welfare funds and the insurance of democratic procedures in the conduct of union business."

Nixon Backs U. S. Aid To Poland

EAST LANSING, Mich., June 9 (AP)—Vice President Nixon said tonight it is "a gamble worth taking" to give economic aid to Poland with the hope that the Poles will turn away from communism.

Defending the Eisenhower administration's action in agreeing to $5 million dollars in loans to help Poland buy surplus U. S. farm commodities and mining machinery, Nixon described it as a move to pit "the explosive power of freedom" against communism.

The vice president's sturdy support for this move put him directly at odds with Senate Republican Leader Knowland of California. The two men have been mentioned as possible opponents for the 1960 Republican presidential nomination.

Knowland said recently that economic aid to Poland and other Iron Curtain countries might be the beginning of a "Communist Marshall Plan." He said such aid would strengthen Communist regimes in the satellites and ease Russia's burden of supplying them with food and other materials.

3-Car Collision Takes 2 Lives

READING, Pa., June 9 (AP)—A three-car collision near Reading last night took two lives and resulted in injuries to three others.

Killed were Kenneth Myers, 33, of Temple, riding alone in his sports car near Leesport and Mrs. Stella Patterson, 46, also of Temple, an occupant of one of the other vehicles.

Police said Myers was traveling south on Rt. 22 and Mrs. Patterson and Richard Brunner, 30, of Reading north along the same route. Myers at a curve went into the oncoming lane and his vehicle collided with the Brunner auto, investigators said.

Brunner and two occupants of the third car, Carl P. Mauger, 19, and Carl Spayd, 20, both of Reading, suffered slight injuries.

GOP Eyes Boost In Estimates

HARRISBURG, June 9 (AP)—Republicans were reported looking tonight to a 21 million dollar boost in revenue estimates as a possible cushion for lifting some of the cuts they have imposed on Gov. Leader's budget.

The state Budget Bureau reported that amount of General Fund revenue in excess of estimates it made last February for the two-year fiscal period ending last May 31.

The bureau said it collected $1,266,810,285 in the biennium, leaving a 62 million deficit. The GOP had based a 94 1/2 million dollar budget slash on an estimated 1955-57 deficit of 82 millions.

Republicans were expected to project the increased estimates into revenue calculations for the coming two years. There was no indication what programs they would increase.

But Gov. Leader lunches with 70 civic and business leaders tomorrow in another effort to pressure Republican lawmakers into restoring money trimmed from his welfare budget.

The meeting "to discuss the drastic slashes in the welfare program," will take place only hours before the Senate is due to call up for final consideration the $1,111,000,000 general appropriation bill that covers the Welfare Department.

"Under this proposed welfare budget," Leader said, "we simply won't have enough to even come close to doing the vitally needed job. That means human suffering, wrecked lives, the wrecked hopes of people who deserve a decent chance."

The governor's office did not release the list of invited guests. GOP Senators agreed to a $13,742,000 slice in welfare funds for 1957-59 from the 15 1/2 million dollar figure asked by the governor.

The senate total for the commonwealth's 23 mental institutions is about $600,000 more than the appropriation approved 10 days ago by the House.

"I urge all members of the Senate to keep in mind that this decision involves human lives—whether men, women and children in our mental institutions will have the opportunity to be restored to useful and productive lives..." The governor said in a weekend statement.

Republicans contend their welfare budget will provide all necessary services.

Leader maintained in another statement that reduction of his budget request for the Fair Employment Practice Commission would cripple the commission's work and practically destroy all possibilities for enforcement or expanded services.

Sen. John H. Dent, Democratic floor leader, promised Democrats will introduce an "unending" stream of amendments to the general appropriation measure. It was debated two days before passing the House at a $1,107,000,000 figure.

Auto Collision Kills 2; Six Hurt

MCKEESPORT, Pa., June 9 (AP)—A two-car collision in McKeesport today killed two women and injured six other persons, two seriously.

Killed were Mrs. Laura Hail, 66, of nearby White Oak, and Mrs. Florence Moritz, 51, of McKeesport. They were riding in an auto driven by Mrs. Hail's son, Howard, of White Oak. Hail was treated for minor injuries.

Another passenger in Hail's car, Mrs. Martha Huston, 64, of McKeesport, was reported in serious condition as was Kenneth Burkett, 18, of Elrama, Washington County, riding in the other auto.

The other injured are William Reynolds, 19, identified as the driver of the second vehicle, listed in fair condition; James Calloway, 17, and Leon Wagner, 19, both treated for minor injuries. All are from Elrama.

The crash occurred on West 5th Ave. at a small bridge crossing railroad tracks. Police said Reynolds struck the Hail car broadside.

Girard Case Complicated, Fiancee Says

OMYA, Japan, June 9 (AP)—William S. Girard's Japanese fiancee said today the young Illinois soldier's case has become so complicated "we don't understand anything any more."

Girard, 21-year-old Army specialist charged with fatally shooting a Japanese woman shell gatherer on a U. S. firing range last January, yesterday dismissed the Japanese lawyer he had hired two days before to defend him.

The lawyer was fired on telephone orders from Girard's brother in Ottawa, Ill., in a move to deny Japanese jurisdiction in the case—already granted by a State Department-Pentagon decision approved by President Eisenhower.

"I guess Bill's brother is running things now," said the soldier's fiancee.

Itsuro Hayashi, the dismissed attorney, said the dismissal was too late and that he had already deposited with a district court papers signed by Girard and acknowledging his indictment.

"I don't know what Bill thinks. He won't talk about it," said the girl, Miss Haru (Candy) Suyama.

Two Air Force Men Die In Auto Crash

LA PLATA, Md., June 9 (AP)—A head-on collision on U.S. 301 south of this southern Maryland community killed two Air Force men last night, one of them a Pennsylvania.

The dead were identified as James Edward Wilson, 24, of (7 Plymouth St.) Edwardsville, Pa., and Thomas M. Ryan, 26, of Defiance, Ohio.

Two other airmen were injured in the wreck.

Pair Escapes Cell Via Narrow Window; Returnee Hungry

CLARION — Two prisoners escaped from the Clarion County jail Saturday night but one of them came back Sunday, saying he was "lired and hungry." Richard E. Greenawalt, 15, of Strattonville, who surrendered to Sheriff Walter O. Mong, also told the sheriff he made a "mistake" by fleeing the jail. He said he got about 16 miles away when he decided to return.

See Early Resignation Of Premier

By JAMES M. LONG

ROME, June 9 (AP)—Most Italian newspapers predicted today newly approved Premier Adone Zoli will resign within 48 hours in the worst political muddle in this country's postwar history.

Communists and Fascists alike were howling with glee at the courtly Christian Democrat Premier's dilemma.

The decision whether to resign is up to him. It will depend on: 1. Whether there was an error in counting the Chamber of Deputies vote of confidence Friday night. His party said he won by one vote without counting Fascist ballots that were cast for him.

2. Whether the 69-year-old former anti-Fascist partisan fighter would accept a vote of confidence whose majority depended upon "kiss of death" Fascist support. He has said he would not.

The bombshell exploded yesterday.

Italian newspapers came out with the big headline extra editions, saying they had learned there was an error in the Chamber vote count.

According to this, one Fascist and one Communist, listed as having abstained, actually voted both against Zoli. That increased the required majority by one vote from 281 to 282, increased the votes against him from 235 to 237, and left his 305 votes one short of a majority if 24 Fascist ballots for him were subtracted.

Giovanni Leone, president of the Chamber, sent Zoli a hurried telegram informing him the Chamber secretariat had reported "possible material errors" in the vote count. Leone ordered an immediate investigation and said the result would be announced in the Chamber Tuesday.

Pilot Uninjured As Plane Crashes

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., June 9 (AP)—A small, private seaplane crashed into the water at Huntsville dam near Dallas today but its lone occupant escaped with apparently minor injuries.

Stanley Urbansky, of Harvey's Lake, told investigators the plane had engine failure. He climbed out of the wreckage and reached shore before the first would-be rescuers arrived.

He was held at Nesbitt Memorial Hospital for observation.

2 U. S. Students, Prisoners In Hungary 12 Days, Freed

By PETER HOFFER

VIENNA, June 9 (AP)—Two South Carolina college students were back in Austria today after 12 days in Hungarian prison cells. They hope the U.S. consulate here will return their passports so they can continue a seven-month hitchhiking tour of Europe and the Far East.

The youths—Mike Gilbert of Wallerboro and Warren William Fair of North Augusta—were expelled from Hungary Friday night. They were arrested by Hungarian police after they crossed the Austrian-Hungarian border illegally.

The U.S. consulate has asked the State Department whether the youths should be permitted to continue their tour or be sent home as violators of passport regulations. Their passports, now held by the consulate, expressly forbid travel in Hungary, and they also had no Hungarian visas.

Interviewed at the Vienna Youth Hostel, Gilbert and Fair said they went to Hungary "because we wanted to get to know a Communist country first-hand." They maintain "the experience was worthwhile."

Gilbert, wearing a beard and mustache which he began to grow in New York, did most of the talking. Fair nodded affirmation. They had crossed the border by crawling under the barbed wire near the Austrian village of Rust, but were jumped by a couple of Hungarian soldiers after only a few minutes walk.

ALTOONA, Pa., June 9 (AP)—About 200 members of the Transport Workers Union and TWU President Michael J. Quill yesterday staged a street rally to protest recent layoffs by the Pennsylvania Railroad at its Altoona works.

Quill said the demonstration was the first in a series across the PRR system to see if union members are "ready to strike to prevent layoffs."

After a speech by Quill and the distribution of literature the union president led his followers in a march through town and the PRR passenger station. They were soaked by a steady rain.

Liberal Party Favored In Canada

By MAX HARRELSON

TORONTO, June 9 (AP)—The Liberal government of Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent is strongly favored to win tomorrow's national election, despite a vigorous campaign by the Conservatives.

John Diefenbaker, 61-year-old Conservative leader, maintains on the eve of the balloting he has a chance for an upset victory like that won by Harry S. Truman in 1948, when the experts picked Thomas E. Dewey.

It is generally conceded the Conservatives will sharply reduce the margin held by the Liberals in the last Parliament, even though they do not threaten their 22-year rule. In 1953, the Liberals won 170 of the 265 seats in the House of Commons. The Conservatives won 51 seats.

Observers see a good chance the Conservatives will pick up 15 to 20 seats, mostly in Ontario. One factor which may help the Conservatives is the active support Diefenbaker received from Ontario Premier Leslie Frost, who remained aloof in the 1953 election. As a result, the Liberals made an unusually strong showing in 1953 in this populous province—as important in Canadian elections as New York is in U.S. presidential contests.

On the other hand, the heavily populated province of Quebec appears to be safely and solidly behind the Liberals again. Experts say one requirement for a Conservative victory would be a substantial gain in Quebec.

Diefenbaker and the 75-year-old St. Laurent were the only candidates to campaign nationally, although both the Socialist Cooperative Commonwealth Federation and the Social Credit party have substantial regional strength. These parties are headed respectively, by M. J. Coldwell and Solon Low.

The Liberals have based their campaign primarily on the prosperity issue, while the Conservatives have accused the government of encouraging inflation. The Conservatives also have charged the government with curtailing parliamentary and individual liberties.
